Programme of German Music Is Called Off

Protest Causes Social Scientific Society to Cancel Concert by Teutonic Stars

Hotel Manager Objects

Former Metropolitan Singers Were to Have Given Selections From Wagner

Another attempt to present German music by German players was forestalled Wednesday when the management of the Hotel McAlpin, it became known yesterday, cancelled a concert which was to have been given next Thursday night in the Grand Ballroom, under the auspices of the Social Scientific Society of New York.

The concert, according to the society's announcement, was to have been "strictly private," with admission "only by special invitation, extended to patrons, guests of members and their friends." To those who had received invitations, admission cards were available at $5 and $3.

Margarete Ober, Johannes Sembach, Hermann Weil, Carl Broun and Otto Goritz, former Metropolitan Opera stars, who were released in November, 1917, by the Metropolitan directors, who abolished German opera for the duration of the war, were to be the artists, with Arthur Arndt, husband of Margarete Ober, as pianist. Compositions by Richard Wagner, according to the announcement, were to be given "considerable prominence."

Will Wait for Formal Peace
The concert has been called off entirely, according to the president of the society, Dr. Otto Glogau, of 64 East Ninety-first Street. He said his organization would entertain no plan to give a presentation until peace was declared and public sentiment really favored the return of German musical works.

The nature of the concert was called to the attention of the management of the McAlpin when a protest was registered by telephone. The management immediately told officials of the society that the concert could not be held. The society for two years has been holding monthly meetings at the McAlpin. Dr. Glogau said plans for the concert had been arranged six weeks ago.

The announcement explained that "this artistic feast is intended as a gala occasion par excellence, and as an antediluvian in honor of the distinguished prima donna, Mme. Ober, and Messrs. Johannes Sembach, Hermann Weil, Otto Goritz and Carl Broun."

Society Founded in 1870
Dr. Glogau said the society was founded in 1870, and includes among its founders, the late Dr. Abraham Jacoby. The late Andrew D. White was a member, Dr. Glogau said. He said the society is one of "ideal art interests."

When it was decided to hold the concert and make it strictly German, Margarete Ober and other singers, said Dr. Glogau, advised that "the time was not yet ripe," but society officials took the view that because the concert was of a private nature it could be entirely in German.

There are about 170 members in the society, Dr. Glogau said, and all are American citizens. Of the membership 10 per cent was born in this country.

New York Newspaper Men to Give "Welcome Home" Dinner
New York newspapermen have organized a welcome home committee to give a dinner April 25 at the Hotel Commodore to members of their profession recently returned from the service. The dinner will begin at mid-night.

Officers of the army and navy and a number of theatrical stars will be among the guests of honor. The committee has opened headquarters at 511 Fifth Avenue.

The City's Jar

If a Gael from the Clan na Sullivan incurs the wrath of a jealous Italian husband may be legally thought to be engaged in a hazardous occupation.

Attorneys for the Fidelity and Deposit Company of Maryland say so. It is their contention that when Arthur R. Sullivan, son of Mrs. Mary A. Sullivan, of 276 Halsey Street, Brooklyn, applied for an insurance policy he said he had no habits which would endanger his health or life.

On July 25, 1917, Sullivan was shot and killed by Antonio Maximini, who claimed Sullivan had "carried on" with his wife. The company refused to pay the insurance, declaring that Sullivan either was unacquainted with the meaning of "habits" or didn't know Antonio.

ADOLPH BRUNWASSER, seventeen years old, is president of the Western Union Messengers' Union, but when he reported yesterday at the Western Union Madison Square office he learned that he had been suspended and for a time could devote himself exclusively to protesting. Other officers of the union fared likewise.

The boys went right to their lawyer, and after a conference with him decided that the thing to do was to call a strike. They called it and announced shortly after 3 p. m. when it became effective, that 800 of the 1,000 messengers employed by the Western Union had quit work. The company estimated the number at about six hundred.

Besides the reinstatement of President Brunwasser and the other officers, the union demands recognition by the company, an increase of one-half cent on all messages carried, with a flat five-cent rate for cable messages, the delivery of all night letters by boy instead of by mail, a 22 weekly increase for all boys paid by the week, pay for "false alarm" calls and a resignation of all night letters in proportion to the business done.

They made arrangements to picket telegraph offices and charge that the company had employed "rough guys" as strike breakers. The company denied the charges and asserted that the intimidation was the other way around.

NEW YORK isn't the only city where automobiles are stolen from the police. Lieutenant Shanks of the Baltimore Police Department came to New York yesterday to claim a car which had been stolen in that city while the police were holding it to use as evidence against men charged with stealing it from its owner.

Detective Meyer, of the Simpson Street police station, found the car in a garage at Hunt's Point. The car had been chiselled from its engine and anti-theft device, but under one of the seats Meyer found a number through which he traced it from factory to owner and discovered it was the car stolen from the police of Baltimore.

"FROM now on," wrote Deputy Warden Joseph M. Crawley of the Tombs yesterday to the War Savings Society Bureau. "I'll do all in my power to make our little society a 100 per cent club."

The deputy warden was announcing the organization of the City Prison War Savings Society, which aims to make prisoners, keepers, cooks and bottle washers in the prison, to campaign will be carried on in all tiers of the society from murderers' row, on the street level, to the mere vagabonds on the top floor.

Posters and speakers will be sent to the prison. The prisoners will be advised that now is the time to save, and the advantages of War Savings stamps, especially for those who may get five-year terms, will be pointed out in glowing language.

WHEN Jacob Posin, of 136 Delancey Street, Manhattan, lost control of his automobile at Bedford Avenue and North Sixth Street, Brooklyn, yesterday he started one of the most spectacular smash-ups ever witnessed in that borough.

His car swerved and crashed into a trolley pole, which snapped off at its base and fell upon Miss Helen Lyons, of 941 Lafayette Avenue, and Dorothy Gaffney, of 677 Leonard Street, cutting and bruising them so badly that they were taken to St. Catherine's Hospital.

The trolley wires fell with the pole, and a flash of fire ran along the street for half a block. For several minutes the electricity flamed and sputtered, attracting a large crowd. Traffic was tied up for an hour while repairs were being made.

The Roosevelt Permanent Memorial National Committee will meet Monday to take definite action toward selection of the form of the proposed memorial.

Mrs. Esther Grandfield fell out of a window on the second floor of 306 East Ninth Street, while hanging out clothes yesterday, and sustained probably fatal injuries.

Senior Chaplain Voorzanger, of the 77th Division, recently promoted to captain, is addressing the Jewish Welfare Board, the first Jewish army chaplain to attain that rank.

David Mannes will conduct the Symphony Orchestra in the third concert Saturday night at the Metropolitan Museum of Art.

Officials of the Public Schools War Chest Fund announced yesterday that contributions of $5,000 each had been made to the American Committee for Relief in the Near East, to the Committee for Fatherless Children in France, and to the Free Milk Fund for France. This leaves $100,000 balance.

A Brooklyn Supreme Court jury yesterday awarded Samuel Seals and John O'Connor $25,518 as commissions on a contract with the Italian navy for 11,000 tons of TNT which the Nitro Powder Company did not fulfill on account of a $220,000 bond proviso.

"Have a Lift" signs to the number of automobiles distributed among motorists by the New York War Camp Community Service.

James Audubon, the "Millionaire stevedore" of Brooklyn, who is said to have started two years ago without a dollar, was named yesterday in a petition in bankruptcy filed yesterday by the Pan-American Terminal Company, which alleges that Audubon's company owes $20,360.

Resolutions expressing whole-hearted confidence in Woodrow Wilson and his efforts at the peace conference were adopted at the annual meeting of the Manhattan Club.

Plans have been completed by the Hebrew National Orphan House for a two-week campaign, during which it is hoped that $100,000 will be collected for the erection of new quarters for the care of Jewish orphans.

The body of Mrs. Margaret Luck, of Marietta, Ga., who was killed by a car driven by a boy, was found yesterday by a boy, J. Gill. Mrs. Luck's child was drowned with her. Its body was found yesterday.

Citizens of Woodhaven and the Laurel Hill district of Long Island City will hold meetings of protest to-night against a bill introduced by Assemblyman Albert T. Brackley, which grants cemeteries the right to purchase additional land for burial purposes. Citizens object on ground that this land is free from taxation.

Three men were arrested in Brooklyn, charged with stealing an automobile and belonging to Irving Berlin, the song writer. They were John Healy, of 573 Park Avenue; John Heaney, of 268 Reid Avenue; and Joseph Riecko, of 210 Jefferson Street.

A portrait of President John H. MacCracken of Lafayette College has been given to New York University. President MacCracken is a son of the late Chancellor MacCracken of New York University and brother of Henry N. MacCracken, president of Vassar.

Gets Life for Love Crime

Japanese Doctor, Jealous Over Nurse, Guilty of Murder

TOWSON, Md., March 20.—Dr. Norbu Ishida, the Japanese alienist, to-day was found guilty of first degree murder for the killing of Dr. George B. Wolff, an associate, on December 21 last.

Chief Justice Burke sentenced Dr. Ishida to life imprisonment.

The state charged that Dr. Ishida killed Dr. Wolff because of jealousy over Miss Billie S. Jacobs, a nurse at the Sheppard-Enoch Pratt Hospital.

O'Leary Furthered German Dirty Work, Marshall Declares

Sinking of Lusitania and Invasion of Belgium Justified by "Bull," Special U. S. Counsel Tells Jury

H. Snowden Marshall, former United States District Attorney and special counsel for the prosecution before Judge A. N. Hand in the United States District Court, in the trial of Jeremiah A. O'Leary, charged with violating the espionage act, declared yesterday, in the final address to the jury, that O'Leary had "furthered the dirty work of the German Embassy in this country."

Mr. Marshall said the charges made by O'Leary that the prosecution was out to attack the whole Irish race in the United States was untrue, and that the Irish people had responded nobly to the call of this country. He then paid tribute to Cardinal Gibbons and Archbishop Ireland as distinguished Irish leaders who patriotically supported the war.

"But was this defendant, O'Leary, in sympathy with Cardinal Gibbons?" demanded Mr. Marshall. "He was not, although he wants you to believe now that he led his people in the glorious record they have made."

Continuing, Mr. Marshall read a message which he said was written by O'Leary in "Bull" which said "Cardinal Gibbons is clamoring for war like a wild-eyed hyena."

Mr. Marshall laid much stress on the fact that O'Leary, an agent of Dr. Heinrich Albert, sent O'Leary in small cash allotments about $5,000, and that the American Truth Society had received a cash check of $500 from Speyer & Co., bankers, on the order of Dr. Albert.

"After that the Lusitania sinking was all right," said Mr. Marshall. "The invasion of Belgium was all right. It was a sin for us to go to war with Germany. It was a sin to send munitions of war to the Allies. And when we went to war with Germany, it was sin to send soldiers abroad."

Mr. Marshall interrupted several times by O'Leary himself, his brother Arthur, and their associate counsel, Colonel Thomas B. Feltner. At one point Mr. Marshall asked the court to stop the interruptions, and the attorneys for the defense were so directed.

When Mr. Marshall concluded Judge Hand announced that he would charge the jury this morning.

Walters Threatens to Resign His Leadership

ALBANY, March 20.—J. Henry Walters, president pro tem. of the Senate, early this morning, during an excited conference of Republican Senators, threatened to resign his leadership, if important legislation was introduced to stop the interruptions, and the attorneys for the defense were so directed.

"Perhaps it would be just as well if you did," he said.

A general row ensued, but cooler heads took control. While it lasted, threats were made by the insurgents that they would attempt a fusion with the uninvoked minority to put through a programme of liberal measures.

The row, which was exclusively foretold in The Tribune last Friday, was seized upon by the insurgents as an opportunity for giving vent to their indignation over the alleged bipartisan character of the legislation.

The revolt against Walters was led by Senators George F. Thompson, of Niagara; Senator Ross Graves, of Buffalo; Senator Frederick J. Davenport, of Oneida.

The insurgent Senators charged that they were being sold out to a Democratic governor, and declared they were sick of having important legislation treated as powerful lobbyists dictated.

When an adjournment was taken until next week, no action on any legislation had been determined upon.

The fight in the Senate is but a reflection of the fight being waged by the liberal men and women of the Republican party in the state against the forces of reaction.

Senator Walters when asked about the conference, mildly denied that he had threatened to surrender his leadership.

COMBINED IN NEW YORK 1896

JOHN WANAMAKER 1861

New York, March 21, 1919.
Good morning!
The weather today will probably be fair.

There are Few Books that are read more than once. Some books will stand two readings, but hardly any book gets three readings.

Every day many men and women come to our big bookstore of 90,000 separate volumes, and say, "I have read through all my books. Give me something new."

Thousands of people pass through this store every day, because in some particulars

It is a New Book

Every day there is a new something that was not there the day before.

We like to be read through every day, if it is only by a visit only for a look.

If your visit did no other good, it would be sure to make us be sure to keep on getting in fresh goods promptly that you might never be disappointed.

[Signed]

John Wanamaker

March 21, 1919.

The Store will be closed all day on the day of the Great Parade, to give every welcome to the heroes of the 27th Division.

Program for Friday
MUSIC by Francis Pangrac, baritone. The Chikering-Ampiro, Erminie Powell, trumpet, the organ.

SPEAKER — Mr. A. F. Ambrose.

MOTION PICTURES — scenes from Czechoslovakia, national dances and drills.

Admission Complimentary

First Gallery, New Building

Georgette Crepe Blouses, $8.50

Notice the effective lines of this blouse from its wide Lanvin neck to the smart little apron that brings it right in line with the pelum that aspires to be fashionable.

Get away from the ubiquitous wool or silk embroidery this little model uses soutache in a bold leaf like design, or in wavy lines with outlining neck, bell sleeves and apron. Without glancing at the $8.50 price tag one would naturally place such a blouse in the $15 class.

Other pumps with slightly higher Cuban heels have those strictly plain lines that go so well with the spring street frocks and suits. Dull and patent leather. (Pictured) $8 pair.

Main Aisle, Old Building.

Inexpensive House Dresses

Imagine a percale house dress with a dainty collar and cuff effect of plain material for $1.50. This little straight-line dress, simple to launder, comes in blues, pinks and lavenders.

A gingham model in gray or blue checks with a long roll collar outlined in plain material, $1.85.

Main Aisle, Old Building.

Underclothes In Extra Sizes

Heaps of pretty white nain-sook lingerie, lace-trimmed and made in attractive styles, show that the extra-size shop is a place where summer has already made an impression.

New nightgowns are $2.50 to $5.
White petticoats, $2 to $3.
Drawer combinations, $1.25 to $2.25.
Chemises, $1 to $2.25.
Drawers, 75c to $2.
Corset covers, $1 to $3.

Third Floor, Old Building

Tricolette Frocks For Women

Tricolette frocks for Spring street wear, to be worn with a bit of fur and a close little hat. Tricolette frocks for afternoon wear and semi-formal wear to appear with sweeping hats and brilliantly buckled shoes.

At $45
is a choice of several charming models. One straight of line with tiny cordings on the bodice and side pockets that give the smart silhouette. This is gifted with a tie-around belt.

Then the frock with a waistline and embroidered belt.
Three chemise frocks with vest-like and folded belt, one piped with contrasting material. In black, navy blue, taupe, gray and Copenhagen blue.

At $67.50

there is a gown with a "cuff" bottom skirt, buttoned to the skirt with bone buttons. The bodice has a "Bib" buttoned on in the same way. Fine lingerie collar and cuffs give this frock a decidedly expensive air.

Another model features a very good waistline and a prettily draped skirt. A third is a long line of utmost simplicity.

At $75

the embroidery tunic is featured by a particularly clever frock with a cross-over waist and panel drapery in back.

Of two other frocks at this price, one makes good use of embroidered side panels, the other of a Watteau back. Other prices up to $112.

Women's Fashion Salons—Second floor, Old Building.

Russian Sables

For Smart Wear

At all times beautiful, Russian sable is particularly favored this Spring, when smart women are going in for small fur pieces of one, two, and three skins.

This little neckpiece is worn with tailored suits and gowns, to give a final softening touch and to make a becoming frame for the face.

Single skin scarfs, $135 and $200.
Two skin scarfs, $200 and $350.

Hudson Bay Sable
may be had in unusually fine dark skins at $90 for a single skin scarf, $150 for a two skin scarf. Stoles, $250 and $400 up to a wonderful cape at $1,300.

Stone Marten
is much worn this season. Its light brown color has a very youthful quality and is very becoming. One skin scarf, $40; three skin scarfs, $150.

Second floor, Old Building.

$10 Saving—

For Young Women

"Regulation" Frocks reduced to $15—our original price was $25; Navy blue men's wear serge, man tailored. Sizes 14 to 20 years.

Second floor, Old Building.

Bloomer Dresses

For Children, $4.50

New style made of Peter Pan cloth in tan and delf blue, with a yoke cut in novel pattern and smocked in front. The yoke, round neck and cuffs are embroidered in white cross-stitch. Well-cut bloomers.

Third floor, Old Building.

Low Heel Pumps

For Women, $8

Idea! "walking" shoes for women who appreciate the comfort of low-heel pumps. Made to fit the feet snugly. Modeled to give the long-line effect. Fitted with small leather bow to match the color of the shoes. This model (pictured) in dull and mahogany colored calfskin, $8 pair.

Other pumps with slightly higher Cuban heels have those strictly plain lines that go so well with the spring street frocks and suits. Dull and patent leather. (Pictured) $8 pair.

Third floor, Old Building.

Good Trunks for Visitors

If your old trunk has been any the worse for its trip to New York, one of these Wanamaker trunks will be more than welcome.

Steamer Wardrobe Trunks—the Wanamaker-Special, with six hangers, shoe pockets and laundry bag; one drop compartment and two drawers; three-ply veneer, covered and lined with vulcanized fibre, 40x21x14 inches, $24.50.

Wardrobe Trunks—three-quarter size; same construction as the steamer trunk; fitted with eight hangers and five drawers; 40x18x21 inches. $32.50.

Hartman Wardrobe Trunks—10 hangers, shoe pocket, four drawers, large bottom drawer for hats, raised cushion top; 40x22 inches. $32.50.

Steamer Wardrobe Trunks—six hangers, drop compartment, two drawers, raised top; 40x14x21 inches. $41.50.

Dress Trunks—two trays, vulcanized fibre covered over veneer; all hardware riveted, cloth lined; 36-inch. $22.

Fibre-covered Trunks—fibre-lined, steamer style used by the U. S. Army, $9, were $13.25; $12, were $15.

Fourth Gallery, New Building.

Summer Cottons

Irresistible

"Such lovely colored swisses." "Give me six yards of this silky tissue voile, it looks exactly like Georgette." "I'll have six of this blue—and the yellow, too; I can't resist that yellow stripe."

So on it goes, and we enjoy it all because it bears out our own idea that there isn't an equal stock of marvelous cotton fabrics and designs anywhere.

Colored Swisses

In all colors and in several sizes of spot, 58c to $2.25 yd.

Printed Voiles

In Georgette crepe and chiffon designs on light and dark grounds, 75c to $1.25 yd.

Stickley Furniture Less Than Half

Yes—less than half, $5, for example, for an $11.50 chair. $45.25 for a $101 day bed with blue denim-covered mattress and bolster. And so forth, running through a long list of chaises longues, settees, day beds, chairs, rockers, and a few book-cases, pedestals, mirrors, dining room suites and separate pieces.

All substantial furniture, from the factories of L. & J. C. Stickley, Gustav Stickley and Stickley Bros. Just brought in from our warehouses. Last of a great purchase. Those who buy today will be likely, some years in the future, to look back at this sale as the high-water mark of furniture values never again to be equalled.

Few of the 400 pieces—mostly one of a kind (which suggests that you come early today).
